A Historical Movel. 12mo, muslin. Price 75 cents.

This is a historical novel from a practiced pen, covering the whole ground of the Bomish persecutions, which preceded the revocation of the Edict of Manus. Without siming to format the popular prejudices against the Bomish Church, it presents a series of portraitures drawn from authentic historical records, illustrating the terrors of the area when the motives of religion were used by corrupt and ambitious men for the subjugation of the human mind, and the establishment of a wast system of optimized despotation. The work is written in a singularly vigorous style, and is well adapted to enchain the attention, and leave an abiding impression on the mind.

Elice Dickers twenty years ago electrified the world with the "Pick wick Paper," there has leen no work like the adventures of Scapey kponge. The author has in a truly original masoner made a sporting man the chief actor in a series of scenes unrivalled for their perfect accuracy, vividness of descriptios, keenness of observation, and minuteness of detail. The characters are drawn by a master hand, and mare parfectly existent. ness of description, keenness of observation, and minuteness of description, keenness of observation, and minuteness of detail. The characters are drawn by a master hand, and are perfectly original not mere copies, exaggerations or alterations from other novels, but ploures from human life as vivid as Gervantes or Dioless ever drew. The author has, win wonderful still, given living portraits of the most striking classes in medorn society. The Jawieyford, the Souttercashes, Crawdeya, Springweste, and indeed the whole dramatis personse of this fastinating work have a freshmest about them which makes as distinct an impression upon the reader as though be had personal y known them. The greatest churn in the narratire is, perhaps, Mr. Sponge's courtaint of the houtiful and brave Lucy Gilliers, one of the most delightul of heroines aince the creation of Die Vernen by the Witzard of the North. Publishers, No. 222 Breadway, New York.
